Tooraweenah

Southern gateway to Warrumbungle Mountains

A tranquil rural village nestled in the foothills of the Warrumbungle mountains, just two minutes off the Newell Highway.

A trip to the National Park will ensure you visit Tooraweenah, and allow you to enjoy the year round views of the spectacular mountains. Tooraweenah has a range of accommodation, services, hospitality, colourful characters and a great little pub to really enjoy the country atmosphere - well worth the diversion.

Activities include tennis, bushwalking and golf on a nine hole course.

An important part of Tooraweenah is its History. This nostalgic village was part of the Kookaburra March in 1916 and Aviation history when Arthur Bulter established an inland service here in 1938.

You can continue to the National Park through Tooraweenah, for a more enjoyable and scenic drive on to Coonabarabran
